Excerpt: . . . sec. 684 are in complete harmony. Under them we find the procedure to be that the evidence is taken down, not, word for word, but in narrative form by the justice, then read over to the witness and any necessary corrections made and then signed by the witness. Then after all the witnesses have signed their depositions the justice asks the accused if he wishes to have them read again and if he does not dispense with the reading they are read again. But sec. 683 contains more and it is the additional part which causes the confusion. It provides that the evidence of the witnesses may be taken in shorthand and that where it is so taken it shall not be necessary that it be read over or signed by the witnesses. Now it is quite clear that this reading being dispensed with, any...
