Excerpt from Eoline; Or Magnolia Vale; Or the Heiress of Glenmore And now, said she, seating herself at the piano, and running over the keys with sparkling fingers, now for your evening serenade, father. She began to warble with the sweetness and volubility of the mocking bird. That is a new song I have just learned. Is it not charming? I am not in a musical vein to-night, Eoline. Are you not? I am sorry, for I feel most particularly melodious. I am sorry, too, my harp is unstrung - that might please you better? (No.) Would you like the guitar? (No, again.) Well I will not plague you with music. But let me tell you the compliment that Mr. Leslie, the European traveller, paid me last evening. He said he wished I were the daughter of a poor man, so that I might be compelled to give my voice to the world; that nature never bestowed such a treasure for the benefit of the domestic and social circles alone. Think of that, father - a prima...
