Reviews

This book might be worth a read, and superior to other. Of course, it really is engage in, still an interesting and amazing literature. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Mr. Frank Buckland tells a story of an old fisherman who lived by his eel-trap. The eels would not run freely enough to please him, so he got a drum and sat up all night tapping upon it. When people asked him what he was doing, he replied that he was tapping the drum to make the eels believe that it was thunder. Frank Buckland (adapted). in-Und-ing flsh-er-man ati-twinn vac-ant, empty. mi-grate, go to other homes. THE CHIMNEY SWEEP. When my mother died I was very young, And my father sold me while yet my tongue Could scarcely cry, weep! weep! weep! weep! So your chimneys I sweep, and in soot I sleep. Theres little Tom Dacre, who cried when his head, That curld like a lambs back, was shaved; so I said, Hush, Tom! never mind it, for when your heads bare, You know that the soot cannot spoil your white hair. And so he was quiet: and that very night, As Tom was a-sleeping, he had such a sight, That thousands of sweepers, Dick, Joe, Ned, and Jack, Were all of them lockd up in coffins of black. And by came an angel, who had a bright key, And he opend the coffins, and set them all free; Then down a green plain, leaping, laughing they run, And wash in a fiver, and shine in the sun. Then naked and white, all their bags left behind, They...
